JOHNSON—At his home, in Cross Creek Village, Pa., Oct. 29th, 1890, Russell T. Johnson, in his 75th year.

Mr. Johnson was born Aug. 25th, 1815, in Newark, Vermont. In his 14th year he united with the Methodist Episcopal church of that place. While at home it was his practice to go frequently to a certain tree upon the farm to pray. When 21 he went to Wisconsin, and after a visit home in 1840, he came with a friend to Buffalo, Pa. Here he taught school, as he also did in the neighborhood of Cross Creek, to which he came in 1843. April 31, 1845, he married Miss Elizabeth Patterson, who survives him. In Dec. 1850, they united with this church. On March 18th, 1858, he was ordained an elder.

Often have we heard this testimony, "He was a good man." His aim was to do and be right; he tried to "live in the Spirit" and "walk in the Spirit", which gave vitality to his profession; he was ever conscious of his weakness, and often said, "I am the chief of sinners"; he tried to follow earnestly after holiness, that necessary qualification for heaven. He loved to visit the sick, who always welcomed him. He highly prized the Church and her services. Failing health compelled him to spend much of the time during his last four years within doors, but whenever health and the weather permitted, he was found at the Sabbath service and the prayer-meeting. During his last year he desired "to depart and to be with Christ," to whom he early gave himself, and through whom he gained the victory.

The Session of Cross Creek church at a recent meeting adopted the following:

Whereas, Since it hath pleased the Great Head of the Church to remove from us our brother, be it

Resolved, 1. That we as a Session bear testimony to his earnest exhortations and untiring efforts to awaken deeper consecration; his devotion to the Church and faithful attendance upon all her services; his readiness to present the Gospel to the unconverted; his faithfulness in visiting the sick and afflicted; his Christian courtesy and kindness to all; and his unwavering hope of a blessed immortality.

2. That we hearken to the voice of this providence which should quicken zeal; and though conscious of our loss, we are silent in the presence of Him who doeth all things well.

3. That the Session for themselves and in behalf of the congregation, express their kindest sympathy to the bereaved family and friends.

W. W. JACKSON, Clerk.

Justus—Died, April 8th, 1891, at his late residence, Oak Springs, Mansfield, Pa., Mr. William R. Justus, in the 84th year of his age.

Mr. Justus was born at Florence, Washington Co., Pa., April 29th, 1807. In 1846 he married Miss Mary J. Bell. At the age of twenty he united with the church of Florence, under the ministry of R. v. Elisha McCurdy, D. D. In 1844 he severed his connection with this church and became a member of the Mt. Pisgah church, Dr. S. C. Jennings, pastor, where he remained until 1852, when he came to Mansfield. In 1871 he re-joined Mt. Pisgah church, in which, from 1882 until the time of his death, he was a ruling elder. The last two years of his life, his health not permitting him to attend Mt. Pisgah, he worshiped with the Mansfield congregation, R. v. J. M. Duff, Ph. D., pastor. Of Mr. Justus it may be truly said that he was a good man—in Israelite in whom there was no guile. Honest, straightforward and sincere, his word could be depended upon. Utterly opposed to all pretense and sham, whatever he undertook to do he did well. He was possessed of mechanical talent, and ever active both in mind and body. He carefully observed the Lord's day, and his favorite Sabbath morning hymns, at family worship, were "Another six days' work is done," and the one containing the words, "Then when our Sabbaths here are o'er." He was truly conscientious, living for the divine glory rather than worldly advancement. He was fearless in rebuking sin, without regard to what others might say or think. He did not fear the face of man, but stood up firmly for the right; and true to his convictions of duty, if need be, would have suffered for the truth.

He possessed also a kindly disposition and a generous heart, and it gave him pleasure to assist the needy and to give of his substance for the advancement of the kingdom of God. He sought earnestly the welfare of souls, in 1874 and 1875 gathering into a mission Sabbath School, at his own home, children who did not go anywhere else. Many, also, with whom he spoke on their personal salvation, will remember his words. Bidding farewell to a friend he said: "Are you getting ready for heaven?" "Yes," was the reply. "That is all right," he remarked. Coming toward the close of life he seemed to hear his heavenly Father's voice, "Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live." That voice he heard without the least degree of alarm. His departure was but to him a joyful journey, for which he was fully prepared. While trimming fruit trees, in 1881, he had a severe fall, suffering over after from heart trouble. Attacked two weeks before his death with la grippe, his strength was not sufficient to withstand the disease. Without murmuring, he bore his sufferings, trusting in Christ and upheld by his grace. As he felt the final moment coming he calmly folded his hands, closed his eyes to die, and then passed away from earth. He leaves behind a wife, three daughters, and an orphan boy brought up in his family, who are sustained by the consolation that he has entered the rest that remaineth for the people of God. "Mark the perfect man and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."
